

Random coalescing geodesics in first-passage percolation

Daniel Ahlberg
IMPA and Uppsala University

Abstract

A metric on  $\mathbb{Z}^2$  is obtained by assigning non-negative i.i.d. weights to the edges of the nearest neighbour lattice. We discuss the existence and properties of geodesics in this metric. Via the study of random coalescing geodesics, we show that the number of (semi-)infinite geodesics starting at the origin is almost surely constant and that each geodesic has an asymptotic ‘direction’.