Constraints in quadratic hedging and portfolio choice problems

Martin Schweizer (ETH Zurich)

Abstract:

We give an overview of classical results and recent developments in quadratic hedging and portfolio choice. This includes mean-variance hedging and the classical Markowitz problem, and we explain in particular how these are affected by the presence of constraints. The goal is to provide an overall picture rather than a detailed view of a particular problem.

The talk is based on joint work with several co-authors.