

Clique and biclique covering problems

Jacques Verstraete¹

¹ University of California San Diego

For a graph G , let $cc(G)$ (respectively, $bc(G)$) denote the minimum number of cliques (respectively, bicliques) needed to cover the edges of G . In this talk I discuss some old and new results on covering the complement of sparse graphs as well as some extensions to hypergraphs, and conclude with a number of open problems.