

Linear response due to singularities

Wael Bahsoun¹

¹ (Loughborough University)

Abstract: It is well known that a family of tent maps with bounded derivatives has no linear response for typical deterministic perturbations changing the value of the turning point. In this talk we consider a tent-like family with a cusp at the turning point, and show that for such a family we recover the linear response. This is joint work with Stefano Galatolo.